

How to clean tea stains from carpet

Cleaning tea stains from carpet is a common and persistent issue in the world of professional carpet cleaning. From the comforting warmth of a morning cuppa to the bustling energy of an afternoon tea service, spills and splashes are inevitable. Yet, when those beloved brews find their way onto carpets, they leave behind stubborn stains that require precise attention and expertise to remove effectively.

Understand the Challenge: Tea Stains on Carpets

Tea stains are no joke when it comes to cleaning carpets. They're among the toughest stains you'll face, especially if the tea was piping hot. And if it's spilled on a wool carpet? Well, get ready for a real challenge. When tea is hot, it opens up the fibers, letting the tannins soak in deep. And once it cools down, those stains are locked in tight.

It's important to manage expectations with clients before diving in. So, while we'll give it our all, it's essential to understand that complete removal isn't always guaranteed. Sometimes, we work magic; other times, we just do our best.